

Investors advised by RIGETO acquire majority stake in medical technology company Oehm & Rehbein with support from BLOMBERG Legal & Tax

Munich, 13 August 2020

A group of investors advised by Rigeto Unternehmerkapital GmbH has acquired a majority stake in Oehm und Rehbein GmbH of Rostock. A fast-growing company specialising in digital X-ray solutions for industrial and medical applications, its focus is on the advancement of hardware and software. The company's three long-term shareholders will remain shareholders of the company and, together with Rigeto, will seek further growth.

Oehm und Rehbein develops and markets digital X-ray solutions and related software products for human and veterinary medicine, material testing, quality assurance and the security industry. The company specialises in equipping medical practices, clinics and small hospitals in German-speaking countries and abroad, and in the worldwide niche market for mobile and portable X-ray solutions. In fact, selected mobile systems from Oehm und Rehbein make it possible to generate high-resolution lung scans of suspected Covid-19 patients within seconds. The company's proprietary software dicomPACS®DX-R is a global market leader in hardware-independent image acquisition.

For Rigeto, the investment in Oehm und Rehbein GmbH marks its third partnership in medical technology after its existing partnerships with BHT Hygienetechnik and ESCAD Medical,
